//

The self-commitment to non-disclosure extends to all personal circumstances, all private and business secrets, any statements, personal details (including name), intimate details, sexual or other fantasies, fetishes, expectations, ideas, images, correspondence, information on mental and physical health, physical characteristics, intimate details, and experiences, etc., and of course all matters that have become known in the context of the services provided by me and could affect the interests of the client.

This self-obligation to secrecy exists in principle towards all third parties, as far as they are not explicitly authorized by law or sovereignty due to their position to receive corresponding communications or information.

The self-commitment to non-disclosure also refers to the fact that all confidential and order-related documents, in particular videos and pictures, are secured against unauthorized access in compliance with minimum standards of data protection (gross negligence and intent) and that neither documents, pictures, or videos, nor parts thereof (including fragments, excerpts or the like) are removed from my office or from end devices personally used by me without the client's express prior written, video-recorded or from the telephone number given permission. The information will be removed from all of my electronic data carriers, or information received in paper form will be destroyed, and other objects of the same informative character will be returned to the client immediately after the termination of the contractual relationship unless the client expressly expresses to me that he wishes me to retain the above-mentioned information for the purpose of a later purchase of my services or for other reasons.

The obligation to maintain confidentiality extends indefinitely beyond the end of the contractual relationship and includes all information received from and about the client prior to the signing of this obligation. The place of jurisdiction is Berlin.
